APPENDIX 10.

(See Instruction 14 (v) under Treasury Rule 11.)

INSTRUCTIONS REGARDING CURRENCY CHEST TRANSACTIONS AND CURRENCY CHEST SLIPS.

The accounts of all currency chests in the State of Tamil Nadu are maintained at the Issue Department of the Reserve Bank of India, Madras. It is the duty of that office not only to bring all transactions to book, but also to watch that each transaction is adjusted, when necessary by an opposite transfer of an equivalent amount and that the balances shown in the accounts agree with the balances reported in the verification statements, it is essential that opposite transfers should be correctly made and that all transactions should be reported promptly and accurately. The following instructions have been framed with this object and failure to observe them will in each instance be treated as a treasury irregularity.

2. Currency chest transactions at treasuries fall into the following categories:—

A. Not involving opposite transactions:—

(1) Actual remittances of treasury from one chest to another within the Home Circle, to or from the Issue Department of the Reserve Bank of India, Madras or between a chest in the Home Circle and another a Foreign Circle.

B. Involving opposite transactions within the district:—

(2) Local exchanges, i.e., deposits into (or withdrawals from) the chest at a treasury of the Bank immediately adjusted by the withdrawal (or deposit) of an equivalent amount from (or into) the same chest. These transfers should not be confused with local transfers.

(3) Intra-district or local transfers, i.e., deposits into (or withdrawals from) one currency chest in the district adjusted by the withdrawal (or deposit) of an equivalent amount from (or into) another currency chest situated within the same district where there is no branch of the Bank in charge of a currency chest in any sub-treasury.

C. Involving opposite transaction at Madras:—

(4) Extrat-district transfers or treasury, Bank transfers requiring adjustment outside the district, i.e., deposits into (or withdrawals from) the treasury/Bank balance at a Sub-treasury adjusted by the withdrawal (or deposit) of an equivalent amount from (or into) the currency chest maintained by the Reserve Bank at Madras.

3. Every currency transaction should be reported on a currency chest slip as described in Instruction 14 (v) under Treasury Rule 11. Each transaction should be classified in one of the categories prescribed in instruction 2 above. Transactions of the same class taking place on the same day may be entered in one slip, but transactions of different classes should always be recorded in separate slips. The following instructions should also be carefully followed when preparing these slips:—

(a) The name of the office to or from which a remittance is sent or received should be stated.

(b) Local exchanges should not be confused with local or treasury (or Bank) transfers and should be promptly reported.

(c) In the case of a local or intra-district transfer the place the opposite transfer takes place should be stated.

4. To enable the Issue Department of the Reserve Bank of Madras, to effect the opposite transactions on account of extra-transfers without delay, the sub-treasury Officer in charge of a currency chest should send an intimation (in addition to the chest slip) to the Currency Officer of the Treasury transfers effected on any day. When a currency chest is in the sole custody of the State Bank of India, the Agent of the Branch should send similar intimations of the Bank transfers effected on any day to the Madras Local Head Office of the State Bank. Such intimations should be sent by letter if the letter will reach Madras on the following working day, and otherwise by telegram. These intimations should show separately the value of notes and coin transferred. Since these details are entered in the accounts of the Issue Department, Reserve Bank of India, Madras, at the time, it is essential that there should be no discrepancy between the amounts as shown in the intimations and in the slips advising the transactions. The slips should also be sent to the Currency Officer without any avoidable delay.

5. (a) The Sub-treasury Officer or the Bank, as the case may be, should send slip for actual remittances of treasure, local transfers local exchanges and treasury (or Bank) transfers direct to the Currency Officer.

A Sub-treasury officer should also send copies of such slips, except those relating to local transfers simultaneously to the treasury officer in order to enable the latter to incorporate the transaction in the accounts of the districts.

(b) Slips for local transfers should always be sent by the Sub-treasury Officer in duplicate to the Treasury Officer who after making the necessary opposite transfer, should retain one copy of the sub-treasury chest slip and forward the other copy to the Currency Officer. In such cases, however, the Sub-treasury Officer will intimate the transfer by change in the balance and also to enable him to watch the adjustment of change in the balance and also to enable him to watch the adjustment at the district treasury.

6. Transactions of any kind should be avoided as far as possible after the last day for transactions in each month fixed by the Treasury Officer for each chest within the district, so as to ensure that the last currency chest slip for the month reaches the Currency Officer not later than the fourth of the following month. In order to avoid differences arising between the balances of a chest as worked out in the Issue Department, Reserve Bank of India, Madras and those reported in the monthly verification statements, great care should be taken to avoid any delay in despatching slips. The rules in Instruction 15 under Treasury Rule 11 regarding the submission of the verification statements should be strictly observed.

7. Whenever an amended currency chest slip is sent to the Issue Department, Reserve Bank of India, Madras, the word "Revised" should always be prominently written in red ink on the slip, and the serial number entered on the amended slip should be the same as that entered on the original slip.

8. Copies of currency chest slips retained at Treasuries may be destroyed three months after the next subsequent verification of the balance in the currency chest to which they relate.

NOTE.—The above instructions, in so far as they apply to currency chest in the custody of the Bank, should be deemed to be instructions issued by the Reserve Bank of India.

APPENDIX 23.

(See Instruction 12 in Chapter II, Part III.)

HINTS ON DETECTING COUNTERFEIT COINS.

PART I.

1. Two kinds of counterfeits are met with, namely struck (or cast and struck) counterfeits and cast counterfeits. Casting is the easiest method of making counterfeits and is much the most frequently employed.

2. Struck counterfeits are made by striking or pressing blanks between dies of steel or other hard metal which bear the impression of the coin. The blanks thus struck may have been cast in suitable moulds to the approximate dimensions of the coin or they may have been cut from sheet metal or otherwise made by hand.

3. The moulds for casting counterfeits are usually made of fine sand, clay or similar material, the required impression being taken from a genuine coin. The mould has a small hole or "gate" cut in the rim through which the molten metal for casting the piece is poured. The metal which fills this gate and solidifies with the rest of the casting thus forms a projection on the rim of the cast counterfeit and has to be cut off to enable the rim at this point to be finished by hand, smoothed or milled as the case may be. Signs of this finishing can usually be detected on the rim of the counterfeit.

4. It is generally much easier to see faults in a counterfeit, if it is compared with one or more genuine coins of the same description. A suspected piece should therefore, be compared in this way if possible preferably with a magnifying glass. It may also be weighed against genuine coins showing the same amount of wear, as the majority of counterfeits not containing much lead are lighter than the genuine coins.

5. When run on a stone slab or similar hard surface, genuine coins should give a high clear note counterfeits do not as a rule ring well. This, however, it is not a conclusive test as counterfeits occasionally ring well while genuine coins sometime are "dumb" owing to small cracks or flaws in the metal; these cracks are often visible on the periphery and indicate that the coins are genuine.

6. The colour of a coin should be scrutinized. With a silver coin, the appearance, whether dull or bright should be silvery and a brassy or laden appearance would generally point to the coin being counterfeit. Some counterfeits have a peculiar glazed appearance. Counterfeits of nickel coins often have a yellowish appearance not unlike that of a genuine nickel coin which has been in use for a considerable time but the genuine coin when polished with a cloth will at once become whiter and brighter while the counterfeit usually will not do so.

7. The thickness of a genuine coin is uniform, while counterfeits are sometimes thicker at one side than at the other and are often slightly bent or distorted so that they will not lie evenly between two other points.

8. The rims of genuine rupees, half rupees and silver quarter-rupees are regularly milled all round with straight indentations at right angles to the faces. In counterfeits of these coins, the milling is often at a slant, the spaces between the indentations irregular and the indentations themselves uneven or broken. The milling can best be examined by placing the suspected coin between two good ones of the same description, when defects can readily be detected. A coin showing good milling is seldom counterfeit but genuine coins occur of which the milling has become much worn or which have been much used as ornaments or fraudulently dealt with and filed or otherwise touched up, so that a coin should not ordinarily be classed as a counterfeit solely on account of bad milling.

9. The beading on the inner side of the rim of silver coins should be even and regular all round, the pearls being uniform in size and shape and equidistant from each other. On counterfeits, the pearls are often badly shaped and uneven in size; the enclosed spaces of letters and figures such as O, P, A, R, D, S, G, 9, 4, in cast counterfeits are sometime filled with metal. In struck counterfeits the pearls are often spaced at irregular intervals and are sometimes very small and far apart.

10. The devices on the obverse and reverse should be clear cut and well defined, especially in outline. Blurred lines or edges and an imperfect impression (unless plainly due to wear and tear or suspicious. Letters and figures of the inscription should be clear, well defined and sharp edged. Blurred, irregular or double lines are to be regarded with suspicion. In some counterfeits the letters are much thinner than on genuine coins.

11. The table or plain surface of the coin (i.e., the portion not occupied by device or inscription) should be smooth, even and free from blemish. An uneven, spotted or rough surface is suspicious.

12. All cast coins are counterfeit. In a cast coin, the surface is usually rough or pitted with minute holes. The rim is usually defective, particularly at the "gate" or point where the metal was poured into the mould. The letters and figures of cast coins nearly always present a rounded appearance instead of having square sharp edges.

13. With struck counterfeits it is not unusual to find several counterfeits bearing identical mark or defects due to the pieces having been struck from the same dies. While with cast counterfeits of silver coins the milling is often evenly spaced (though defective) except at the "gate", the milling of a struck counterfeit is usually very irregular.

14. Genuine coins which have suffered by the action of chemicals or fire may have rough and discoloured surfaces though they are generally distinguishable from cast coins. In some cases, however, such coins are difficult to distinguish from counterfeits, and when this is the case or swamping is suspected they should be sent to one of the Mints for examination.

15. Counterfeits made from tin or a mixture of tin and lead, are soft and easily bent and will sometimes emit a cracking noise when bent between the fingers close to the ear.

16. Coins, the obverse and reverse of which are anachronistic, e.g., when the former bears the inscription "Victoria Empress" and the latter the date 1862 or "Victoria Queen" with the date 1877 are counterfeits.

17. A counterfeit will usually be found to exhibit at least two of the foregoing faults. A coin should not ordinarily be condemned for only one fault unless it is very marked.

18. The instructions in Part II deal specifically with coins with security edge.

PART II.

1. Two kinds of counterfeits are found cast and struck or a combination of the two.

2. Cast counterfeits are the most easily made and therefore more usually found. The mould into which the molten metal is poured may be made of sand, clay powdered burnt brick, plaster of paris or similar material and the impression on the mould is taken from a genuine coin. The mould has a small or 'gate' cut in the rim, through which the molten metal is poured. The metal which fills this hole and solidifies with the rest of the casting forms a projection on the rim of the cast coin which must be cut off to enable the rim at this point to be finished and milled by hand and the security groove put in. Signs of this hand finishing can usually be detected on the rim of cast counterfeits.

3. Struck counterfeits are made by striking or pressing blanks between dies of hard metal, the designs of which are engraved by hand or from dies of softer metals on which the impressions can be transferred from a genuine coin. The blanks, thus struck, may have been first cast or cut from sheet metal.

4. Counterfeits are more easily detected if compared with one or more genuine coins of the same design, using a magnifying glass if necessary. A suspicious coin may also be weighed against a genuine coin showing the same amount of wear, since most counterfeits which do not contain much lead are lighter than genuine coins.

5. When rung on a hard surface, genuine coins should give a clear base metal. Others may contain more silver than the genuine coin which contains 50 per cent silver and in this case the ring may be clear, but will give a lower tone than the genuine alloy.

This, however, is not a conclusive test as counterfeits occasionally ring well, while genuine coins are sometimes 'dumb' owing to small cracks or flaws in the metal. The presence of such cracks, if visible, on the edge of the coins would indicate that the coin is genuine.

6. The thickness of a genuine coin is uniform while counterfeits are sometimes thicker at one side than at the other and are often slightly bent or distorted, so that they will not lie evenly between two other coins.

7. The rim of genuine rupees, half rupees and quarter rupees, are regularly milled all round with straight indentations at right angles to the faces but rupees of 1940 and onwards and half rupees of 1941 onwards have also a security device in the centre of the milled edge. This device consists of a shallow groove containing alternate beads and diagonal lines. In two sections, separated by blank spaces. The blank portions on rupees of 1940 are about twice the length of those on rupees or half rupees bearing the date 1941. In counterfeits of these coins, the milling is often at a slant, the spaces between the indentations irregular and the indentations themselves uneven or broken. The milling can best be examined by placing the suspected coin between two good coins of the same description, when defects can readily be detected.

Coins should not be classed as counterfeits solely on account of bad milling, since genuine coins are found with worn milling with portions soldered for use as ornaments or with edges filed or touched up. Coins of which the milling is good, however are seldom counterfeit.

8. The beading on the face of the rim of genuine coins should be even and regular the pearls being uniform in size and shape and evenly spaced. The enclosed spaces of letters and figures such as O.P.A., R.D. 4 9 0 in cast counterfeits are sometimes filled with metal. In struck counterfeits, the pearls are often spaced at irregular intervals and are sometimes very small and far apart.

9. The heads and diagonal lines, which appear alternately in relief inside the security groove should be clear cut well defined and uniform in size and shape. The blank portions of the groove should be equal in length. In counterfeits, the beads and diagonal lines are often badly shaped and uneven in size, the intervening spaces being sometimes filled with metal. The blank portions usually showsigns of metal having been scooped out by hand, resulting in broken milling on either side of the blank portion and possibly a wider groove than in genuine coins.

10. The devices on the obverse and reverse should be clear and well defined, especially in outline. Blurred lines or edges and an imperfect impression (unless plainly due to wear and tear) are suspicious. Letters and figures of the inscription should be clear, well defined and rounded. Blurred, irregular or double lines are to be regarded with suspicion. In some counterfeits, the letters are much thinner than on genuine coins.

11. The table or plain surface of the coin (i.e., the portion not occupied by any design or inscription) should be smooth, even and free from blemish. An uneven spotted or rough surface with irregular nodes of metal thereon is suspicious.

12. All cast coins are counterfeit. In a cast coin, the surface is usually rough or pitted with minute holes. The rim is usually defective, particularly at the 'gate' or point where the metal was poured into the mould.

13. In the case of struck counterfeits, it is not unusual to find several with identical marks or defects, having been struck from the same dies. The milling is usually very irregular. In the case of cast counterfeits, the milling and the design in the groove are often evenly spaced except at the 'gate' where the surplus metal has been removed.

14. Genuine coins which have suffered by the action of chemicals or fire may have rough and discoloured surfaces though they are generally distinguishable from cast coins. In doubtful cases, suspicious coins should be sent to one of the Mints for examination.

15. Counterfeits made from a mixture of tin and lead are soft and easily bent and will sometimes emit a cracking noise when bent between the fingers while being held close to the ear.

16. Rupees bearing dates 1938 and 1939 and half rupees bearing dates 1938, 1939 and 1940 which are found with the securities grooved edge are definitely counterfeit. Rupees and half rupee of these issues are regularly milled all round like earlier issues without security edge. Similarly, rupees of 1940 and onwards and half rupees of 1941 and onwards which are regularly milled all round like earlier issues are also counterfeit.

17. A counterfeit will usually be found to exhibit at least two or more of the foregoing faults. A coin should not ordinarily be condemned for only one fault, unless it is very marked.

18. George VI rupees of 1938 and 1939, half-rupees of 1938 and 1939 and quarter-rupees of 1939 are made of standard silver and rupees, half-rupees and quarter rupees of 1940 and onwards are made of quarternary alloy, containing 50 per cent silver. Rupees of 1940 and onwards and half-rupees of 1941 and onwards are also provided with "Security edge". The hints on detecting counterfeits of earlier issues given in Part I are equally applicable to these coins, except that the letters and figures are rounded and not sharp-edged.

The margin and the devices of quarternary coins of 1942 have been slightly improved to increase resistance to wear compared with coins of 1940 and 1941. Such coins should not be looked upon with suspicion in determining their genuineness, unless two or more of the faults described in paragraphs 1 to 18 are readily detected.

PART III.

With the introduction of pure nickel series of coins in 1946, comprising rupees, half-rupees and quarter rupees, the design of these coins was changed; the size and standard weights of the coins remaining the same as in previous issues, except in the case of the rupee, which become smaller in diameter and consequently thicker, the weight remaining the same at 180 grains troy—the half-rupees and quarter rupees weighing 90 grains and 45 grains respectively. Pure nickel rupees were first issued bearing the date 1947 and half-rupees and quarter rupees bearing the date 1946. Pure nickel rupees of 1947 and half-rupees and quarter rupees of 1946 and 1947 bore on their reverse the Tiger and on the obverse the effigy of King George VI. No coins bearing the date 1948 and 1949 were minted and issued by the Indian Mints. Pure nickel rupees, half-rupees and quarter rupees of 1950 and onwards bear on their obverse the Asoka Pillar and on the reverse the Ears of Corn design. In the pure nickel series of coins the rupee are security edged, whilst the half and quarter rupees bear a plain milling.

Adoption of pure nickel in itself is a safeguard against counterfeiting. One of the chief advantages lies in the difficulties of production. Pure nickel cannot readily be used for the making of small sand castings having a good surface finish. As the chief method of the counterfeit or is to cast individual coins in sand or metal moulds, he must employ some alternative medium which can readily be detected. A distinctive feature of nickel is that it is magnetic and no other metal which might conceivably be considered suitable for coinage has this property. Therefore a magnet can be used as a test of the genuineness of pure nickel coins. Furthermore, pure nickel is particularly free from tarnishing, any dirt or finger marks can be wiped clean with a dry rag.

Two kinds of counterfeits pure nickel coins are found viz., cast and struck or a combination of the two.

Cast counterfeits are the most easily made and therefore are more usually found. The mould into which the molten metal is poured, may be made of sand, clay, powdered burnt brick, plaster of Paris or similar material and the impression on the mould is taken from a genuine coin. The mould has a small hole or 'gate' cut in the rim, through which the molten metal is poured. The metal which fills this hole and solidifies with the rest of the casing, forms a projection on the rim of the cast coin, which must be cut off to enable the rim at this point to be finished and milled by hand and the security groove put in. Signs of this hand finishing can usually be detected on the rim of cast counterfeits.

Struck counterfeits are made by striking or pressing blanks between dies of hard metal, the designs of which engraved by hand or from dyes of softer metal on which the impressions can be transferred from a genuine coin. The blanks, thus struck, may have been first cast or cut from sheet metal.

Counterfeits are more easily detected if compared with one or more genuine coins of the same design, using a magnifying glass if necessary. A suspicious coin may also be weighed against a genuine coin showing the same amount of wear, since most counterfeits which do not contain much lead are lighter than genuine coins.

The only disadvantage of pure nickel coins is that they have no ring and for centuries, Indians have been accustomed to judge the genuineness of the silver coins by listening for the clear ring of high touch silver coins. There is no doubt that the ringing test diminished in importance, when quarter-nay alloy coins with 50 per cent silver were introduced. These coins give a much higher and sharper ring than their high touch predecessors. The dumbness of pure nickel coins, however is compensated for by their magnetic properties and any small boy equipped with a cheap magnet can easily distinguish a counterfeit from a genuine coin.

The thickness of a genuine coin is uniform, whilst counterfeits are sometimes thicker at one side than at the other and are often slightly bent or distorted, so that they will not lie evenly between two other coins.

The rim of genuine pure nickel rupees, half-rupees and quarter-rupees are regularly milled all round with straight indentations at right angles to the faces, but pure nickel rupees have also a security device in the centre of the milled edge. This device consists of a shallow groove with a design consisting of a chain of small beads in relief in two sections separated by blank spaces. In counterfeits of these coins the milling is often at a slant, the space between the indentations irregular and the indentation themselves uneven or broken. The milling can best be examined by the placing the suspected coin between two good coins of the same description, when defects can readily be detected.

Coins should not be classed as counterfeits solely on account of bad milling, since genuine coins are found with worn milling with portions soldered for use as ornaments or with the edges filed or touched up. Coins of which the milling is good however are seldom counterfeits.

The beads which appear in relief inside the security groove on the rupee coins, should be clear cut, well-defined and uniform in size and shape. The blank portions of the groove should be equal in length. In counterfeits, the beads are often badly shaped and uneven in size, the intervening spaces being sometimes filled with metal. The blank portions usually show signs of metal having been scooped out by hand, resulting in broken milling on either side of the blank portion and possibly a wider groove in genuine coins.

The devices on the obverse and reverse should be clear and well-defined, especially in outline. Blurred lines or edges and an imperfect impression (unless plainly due to wear and tear) are suspicious. Letters and figures of the inscription should be clear well defined and rounded. Blurred, irregular or double lines are to be regarded with suspicion. In some counterfeits the letters are much thinner than on genuine coins.

The table or plain surface of the coin (i.e., the portion not occupied by any design or inscription) should be smooth even and free from blemish. An uneven spotted or rough surface with irregular nodes of metal thereon is suspicious.

All cast coins are counterfeits. In a cast coin the surface is usually rough, or pitted with minute holes. The rim is usually defective, particularly at the 'gate' or point where the metal was poured into the mould. In the case of struck counterfeits, it is not unusual to find several with identical marks or defects having been struck from the same dies. The milling is unusually very irregular. In the case of cast counterfeits milling and the design in the groove are often evenly spaced, except at the 'gate' where the surplus metal has been removed.

Genuine coins which have suffered by the action of chemicals or fire may have rough and discoloured surfaces, though they are generally distinguishable from cast coins. In doubtful cases, suspicious coins should be sent to one of the Mints for examination.

Counterfeit made from a mixture of tin and lead are soft and easily bent and will sometimes emit a cracking noise, when bent between the fingers while being held close to the ear. The above things are also helpful in detecting counterfeits of cupronickel coins and bronze coins of the years 1946 and onwards, except that these coins are non-magnetic and their designs were altered in the year 1950.

The two-anna, one-anna and half-anna cupronickel coins of 1950 and onwards bear the Asoka Pillar on the obverse and the Asoka Bull on the reverse, their weights, sizes and shapes remaining the same as that of predecessors. The bronze single pice of 1950 bears the Asoka Pillar on the obverse and the Asoka Horse on the reverse. It is circular in shape and weights 60 grains. From 1951 onwards the bronze single pice weighs 45 grains, all other features remaining the same as for 1950 except that the coins of 1951 and onwards are thinner than those of 1950, due to the reduction in weight.

(See Instruction 13 in Chapter II—Part III.)

MEMORANDUM ON THE DISTINGUISHING FEATURES WHICH WOULD CONSTITUTE THE "FRAUDULENT DEFACEMENT" OF A COIN.

Sweated coins.—These coins are invariably reduced in weight and bear signs of having suffered from the action of chemicals.

The surface is generally rough and discoloured and, if seen through a magnifying glass, small pittings can be discerned.

The letters and figures are sharp in appearance and in some instances slightly doubled. Care should, however, be taken not to mistake burnt coins for the above. These coins are not rejected as fraudulently defaced unless the signs of sweating are clear enough to be obvious to the public. Rupees weighing below 157.5 grains, i.e., $\frac{7}{8}$ of a tola should invariably be examined for signs of fraudulent defacement.

2. Defaced coins.—Defaced coins bearing clear signs (i.e., signs that must be obvious to the public) of defacing with fraudulent intent are rejected as fraudulently defaced.

Coins from which silver has been deliberately removed by filing, clipping, scooping or punting are rejected as fraudulently defaced.

Coins on which any part of the effigy or design has been obviously re-engraved by hand are rejected as fraudulently defaced.

3. Remilled coins.—Coins which have been remilled are rejected as fraudulently defaced but coins used as ornaments of which a section only has been remilled to restore the milling unevenly filed in the process of removing the solder should not necessarily be regarded as fraudulently defaced.

4. Drilled coins.—Coins which appear to have been used as ornaments and bear no other signs of reduction are not fraudulently defaced but are accepted as defaced. If tendered in large numbers, however, a fraud should be suspected.

5. Striated coins.—These coins have striation radiating from the centre of either side of the coin towards the edges, commonly on the obverse, the side bearing the Royal Effigy.

Coins bearing numerous striations, though not reduced in weight, are rejected as fraudulently defaced.

Coins with slight scratches are not fraudulently defaced.

6. Light weight Rupees.—Rupees which have lost in weight over $\frac{1}{4}$ of a tola are always rejected as fraudulently defaced.

7. Patched coins.—Cut or broken coins that have been patched with solder are rejected as fraudulently defaced.

8. Soldered coins.—Soldered coins are accepted, provided that—

(i) They are in one piece.

(ii) They retain sufficient impression to admit of identification as genuine Indian Government coin. (If unidentifiable, they are returned uncut as unacceptable coin).

(iii) The solder has been carefully and sufficiently removed by tools or by heat treatment.

(iv) They have not been reduced by sweating with acid.

(v) Silver has not been scooped or filed from the coin under pretence of removing solder.

(vi) Pieces of the original coin have not been removed and replaced with solder or base metal.

Notes of denominations in excess of one hundred rupees.

11. Lost or wholly destroyed notes particulars to be furnished along with claims.—A claim in respect of a note of any denomination exceeding one hundred rupees, which is stated to have been lost or wholly destroyed, shall be made in the manner hereinafter specified, namely:—

(a) a claim in respect of any such note shall be accompanied by a written statement, containing the name, occupation and address of the claimant, asserting in either case that the claimant was the last lawful holder of the entire note and describing the circumstances leading to the loss or destruction of the note as the case may be;

(b) the written statement shall be signed in the presence of an officer of—

(i) the Reserve Bank of India constituted by the Reserve Bank of India Act, 1934 (2 of 1934); or

(c) if any inquiry has been held by the police or postal authorities regarding the circumstances of the loss or destruction, a statement obtained from the said authorities indicating the result of the enquiry shall also be forwarded along with the claim.

12. Lost or wholly destroyed notes, circumstances in which claims shall be rejected.—If the prescribed officer after examining a claim made under rule 11 is not satisfied that the note has been lost or wholly destroyed in such circumstances that there is no probability of its being presented at some future date, he shall reject the claim.

13. Lost or wholly destroyed notes, circumstances in which claims may be paid.—(1) If the prescribed officer, after examining a claim made under rule 11 is satisfied that the note has been lost or wholly destroyed in such circumstances that there is no probability of its being presented for payment at any future date, and is further satisfied that the claimant was the last lawful holder of the note, he shall cause to be published in the Gazette of India and in three successive issues of the Gazette of the State Government of the Union territory in which the office of the Issue Department at which the claim was first presented is located a notice of the claimant and particulars of the note alleged to have been lost or destroyed and calling upon any person having a counter-claim in respect of the note to submit the counter-claim immediately to the Bank, and shall in addition cause a copy of the said notice to be displayed on a notice board in a permanent place at the Issue Department of each office of branch of the Bank for a period of not less than three months and thereafter.
